AN OBJECT LESSON IN CO: OPERA:

TION.

According to the Burlington Hawkeye some Iowa farmers have been setting a wholesome example of what may be accomplished by co-operating together: Eleven years ago, at Rockwell, Cerro Gordo county, the Felthouse brothers were coining money buying grain and stock and selling everything the farmer needed. They became rich so fast and the farmers became so dissatisfied ciation for the purpose of building an elevator, marketing their own grain and disposing of their own hogs. Four men were the brains and energy of the movement, N. Densmore, who was the first president, and who retained that office for the first half dozen years;

Thomas McManus, the Patrick Henry of the association; William Barragy and C. S. Hance. By agitation they interested ninety-five farmers in four townships about Rockwell to take stock in shares of $100 each and no man could own more than three shares. With this capital an elevator was built and the bulwark against destruction of ruinous competition. The members were always paid one-fourth cent more than the seller outside the society, and the association protected itself from the allurements of higher prices paid by competing elevators by compelling its members to pay one-fourth cent com-mission in case the grain was sold to a ompetitor. The manager was instruct ed to give the highest price possible based on Chicago quotations, and if the competitor offered a higher price He advised the members to sell to them and bring their one-fourth cent com-mission to the treasury. The founders had figured to a nicety that this quar-ter of a cent would pay all of the ex-penses of the manager if not a bushel f grain came into their elevator and hus they would have always a buyer who would either give the best prices the market would warrant or compel their competitor to pay the farmer more than the market price, to the detriment of the competitor, the profit of the as-sociation and the welfare of the farmer.

The result has been that the Rockwell elevators have paid always one-half to one and one-half cents higher than any other elevators - the county, and have been a source of positive chilis and fever to the other elevator companies.

The association has been fortunate in the selection of its officers. They have been both shrewd and honest, and have Insistently refused to listen to overtures from other concerns. Just re-cently the Kansas City Grain Company, which is now endeavoring to meet the association prices, offered to form a combination to allow the farmers to fix the price of grain daily at Rockwell and they would make the same price at their various elevators. The officers thought they detected an attempt to usiness begun.

UNSEEMLY CONDUCT At a meeting of the school board yesterday, the most disgraceful kind of scenes were enacted between the mem-bers of the board. Bad blood and bad feelings have existed for many months, ven to such an extent that the citizens alled a mass meeting long ago and adopted resolutions demanding the resignation of all the members of the board, which resolutions they utterly ignored. The pent up feelings broke loose yesterday, and pandemonium reigned supreme. It became necessary for the citizens to take charge of the meeting, and out of chaos came some-thing like order. After the financial report had been approved, an election was held, for the purpose of electing a rustee for the term of three years, as well as electing a superintendent county schools, which resulted as fol-ows: Barlow Wilson, superintendent sured-The Fourth. Special Correspondence, Parker, Idaho, July 9.—The click of the mower, and the jingle of the horsethe mower, and the jingle of the horse-rake are the prevailing music here, at present. The hay crop is good and ex-tremely early giving plenty of time for a heavy second crop and good grazing after that. Much of the wheat is in bloom, having come into head during the late days of June, it promises now to yield abundantly and to be fully ripe before our usual period of frosts. combining with other concerns, and politely refused the overture.

One of the things which most easily would have wrecked the concern-dis-honest management-has been happily averted. There have been only two managers in its history, and while they could in various ways have "feathered their nexts" and retired comparatively rich, they have considered their office as a sacred trust, and were content with a salary of $1,000 a year and a clear conscience, in preference to ill-gotten gains and the contempt of their neighbors. From a beginning of ninety-five members and less than two hun-dred shares of stock, the association has grown to nearly five hundred members, representing 601 shares of stock. From a first year's business of probably less than $50,000, the year just closed as shown a business of $500,000, and ar increase in the past year of $185,000. This year, too, they have added another elevator at Cameron, four miles south of Mason City, (another challenge to the Kansas City Grain Company) have added 125 new members, declared a dividend of $6,123 and have a surplus of over $7,000 in the treasury.

The history of this organization is unique. There is no other like it any where. It aims at no dividends, the theory being to give the dividends in prices for grain, the largest seller herefore, getting the largest benefit. which is, of course, the most just. There are no assessments and never a deficit Coal, flour and the like are sold to the small an expense that people at Rock-well, for some reason or other, can secure these commodities at a saving all the way from 10 to 25 per cent, in comparison with the prices in surrounding towns. The Rockwell society is never without a large business, it wants no middlemen's profits, and the money which the ordinary elevator company makes is simply tacked on to the mar-ket price of the grain. At Mason City for the first time in years the Kansas City Grain Company, a powerful corand there is much interest to see if that organization will keep up the pace or succumb, as so many others have in
